Jack and the Beanstalk

Once upon a time there was a boy called Jack, his mum couldn't buy him the clothes for his back

They have to sell their cow as fast as they can, on their way they met a little old man

Jack sold him the cow for 3 magic beans, his mum was so mad she began to scream

Out of the windows the beans were threw, throughout the night a beanstalk grew

So he climbed and he climbed and he climbed till he reached the sky.

There was a giant's castle and a giant's wife, 'my husband will chase you with a carving knife'.

When the giant came in with his gold he roared,

    'Fee-fi-fo-fum, I smell the blood of an Englishman

    Be he live or be he dead, I'll grind his bones to make my bread!'

Luckily the giant fell asleep, Jack grabbed his gold and away did creep – down the beanstalk

So he crept and he crept and he crept till he reached his house

His mum was very pleased with him, but when the gold ran out their life was grim

So again he climbed and he climbed and he climbed till he reached the sky

Again he met the giant's wife, 'my husband will chase you with a carving knife'.

When the giant came in with his hen he roared,

    'Fee-fi-fo-fum, I smell the blood of an Englishman

    Be he live or be he dead, I'll grind his bones to make my bread!'

Luckily the giant fell asleep, Jack grabbed his hen and away did creep – down the beanstalk

So he crept and he crept and he crept till he reached his house

His mum was pleased with the golden eggs from the hen, but Jack still went up the beanstalk again

So he climbed and he climbed and he climbed till he reached the sky

Again he met the giant's wife, 'my husband will chase you with a carving knife'.

When the giant came in with his golden harp he roared,

    'Fee-fi-fo-fum, I smell the blood of an Englishman

    Be he live or be he dead, I'll grind his bones to make my bread!'

Luckily the giant fell asleep, Jack grabbed his harp when suddenly:

The harp shouted out, 'Master Master', Jack ran away and the giant ran after

Down and down and down the beanstalk they ran, Jack got to the bottom and chopped it down

He chopped and he chopped and he chopped, the giant fell down and broke his crown

Finally, Jack and his mum shared lots of laughter, and they all lived happily ever after.
